What the research says (why the scripts look like this)

1. Robinson's own Meta ads: the clearest lesson

Ad	Type	Click rate	Cost per website click
Outlet – Modular Sectional	product + price photo	1.50%	~$0.32
Outlet – Outdoor Poly Rocker	product + price photo	1.13%	$0.34
Outlet – Top Grain Leather	product + price photo	1.09%	$0.31
Main – La-Z-Boy Recliners $399	product + price photo	0.76%	$0.30
Outlet – We Pay Sales Tax	general offer banner	0.52%	—
Outlet – Save Big on Closeouts	general offer banner	0.48%	—
60th Anniversary Main Store	video	0.49%	$10.70
60th Anniversary Outlet	video	0.79%	$8.56

- The 60th Anniversary videos lost people almost immediately. About 19,800 people started the Main Store video. Only 336 (under 2%) made it a quarter of the way through, and the average watch time was 2 seconds. Each website click cost about 30× more than the photo ads.
- A specific product with a specific price wins. Those ads got 2–3× the clicks of general "sale" banners.
- So every video below opens on a real couch and a real price in the first 2 seconds, with a person in frame. No logo intro and no "thank you for 60 years" opening.

2. What works in this space (outside research)

- Show a person in the first 2 seconds. TikTok's analysis of ads found:
  - 90% of an ad's recall impact happens in the first 6 seconds.
  - A person on screen early made ads about 50% better at hooking viewers.
  - Someone talking straight to camera was linked to +128% purchase intent.
- Meta rewards a specific style. Its analysis of Reels ads found the best performers shared four traits: vertical 9:16, sound on, a real person, and text on screen with a lo-fi look. Those ads got 56% higher click rates and 20% cheaper clicks.
- Lo-fi beats polished. When Fantastic Furniture (a furniture chain) tested do-it-yourself creator-style videos against cut-down TV spots, the creator-style videos won on both click rate and cost per click.
- The owner as the recurring face is a proven local model:
  - Mattress Mack (Gallery Furniture, Houston) built a brand on the owner talking fast to camera with one catchphrase.
  - Bob's Discount Furniture's founder starred in deliberately unpolished ads.
- Caution: a New Hampshire furniture owner's "help us stay open" video went hugely viral, and the store then closed with 50+ complaints. Keep the energy fun and confident. Don't use "going out of business" or desperation framing.
- Make everything work on mute. Burn captions into every video and put the offer, dates and address on screen as text.

3. Rules for every video

1. Shoot vertical (9:16). Keep each video 15–30 seconds, and also cut a 6–8 second version for Stories.
2. Within the first 2 seconds: a face, a couch and a price.
3. Captions on everything. The price and the date "NOW THRU NOV 2" also go on screen as text.
4. Keep text out of the danger zones. Stay out of the top ~15% and bottom ~35% of the screen, where Reels buttons cover it.
5. End on a clear call to action: store name, address, "Now thru Nov 2".
6. Halloween is the seasoning, not the meal. The couch and the price are always the hero.

The scripts

Film every script at both stores, swapping in the address. Each script has two opening hooks. Film both, so we can test which one keeps people watching.

SCRIPT 1 – "The Scream" (15s) ⭐ lead ad

Why: A face plus a price in the first second gives a surprise reaction. It's the simplest test of the hook.

Time	Shot	Audio / text on screen
0–2s	Hook A: tight on a staffer's face. They flip a price tag over, then scream. Hook B: start ON the price tag ($529), then pull back to the shocked face	🔊 "AHHHH!" · TEXT: $529 SOFA?!
2–5s	Staffer turns to camera, calm	"Sorry. Our prices are just that scary right now."
5–11s	Fast cuts: 3 couches with their tags (Stonemeade $529 → Gardiner $719 → Foreside $739)	"Sofas from five twenty-nine. Up to fifty percent off."
11–15s	Staffer waving from a couch, with a small pumpkin prop	"Now through November 2nd. Robinson's, [Third Street / Conner Road], Oxford." · TEXT: NOW THRU NOV 2 + address

SCRIPT 2 – "Owner Pitch" (25-30s) ⭐ trust ad

Why: The owner as the face is the proven local model, and talking straight to camera builds purchase intent. Who: the owner or the most recognizable family member. Use a lav mic.

Time	Shot	Audio / text on screen
0–2s	Hook A: owner sitting on the Stonemeade, pats the cushion. Hook B: owner holding the $529 tag up next to their face	"This whole sofa? Five twenty-nine."
2–8s	Owner walking past 2–3 couches (on a gimbal or walking backward)	"We've got to make room on the floor, so these prices are honestly a little scary."
8–18s	Price-tag close-ups cut in while they talk	"Brett Honey, nine seventy-nine. Brogliano leather, ten forty-nine. And the Bucktown sectional with the ottoman, thirty-three ninety-nine."
18–25s	Back to the owner, close	"We've been family owned here in Oxford since 1966. Come sit on them yourself."
25–30s	End card over the owner	"Now through November 2nd." · TEXT: PRICES SO LOW IT'S SCARY · NOW THRU NOV 2 + address/phone

SCRIPT 3 – "Couch Countdown" (20-25s) ⭐ matches the carousel

Why: It mirrors the carousel graphics. Each couch gets 3 seconds, and the price is always on screen.

Time	Shot	Audio / text on screen
0–2s	Hook A: jump-cut straight onto the Bucktown sectional (flop onto it). Hook B: close-up of the hand flipping the $529 tag	"Six couches. Six scary-low prices. Go."
2–20s	3 seconds per couch: wide shot → sit → tag. TEXT = name + price, big	Stonemeade $529 · Gardiner $719 · Foreside $739 · Brett Honey $979 · Brogliano $1,049 · Bucktown $3,399
20–25s	Staffer to camera	"Which one are you taking home? Now through November 2nd." · TEXT: address

Only include couches that are actually on that store's floor.

SCRIPT 4 – "The Sit Test" (15s)

Why: A real person sitting down is the furniture version of a product demo. It shows comfort, which a photo can't.

Time	Shot	Audio / text on screen
0–2s	Hook A: someone drops backward onto the sofa in slow motion. Hook B: close-up of the hand pressing into the cushion	TEXT: The $529 sit test
2–9s	Real reaction, stretches out, puts feet up (Foreside recliner: show the recline)	"Okay... this is way too comfy for five twenty-nine."
9–15s	Pull back to show the full set + tag	"Prices so low it's scary. Robinson's, now through November 2nd."

SCRIPT 5 – "Haunted Showroom" (15s) – fun/organic

Why: Gives a light Halloween touch for a scroll-stopping, shareable post. Good as an organic post or a cheap test.

Time	Shot	Audio / text on screen
0–3s	Lights dim, staffer holding a flashlight under their chin on a couch	(spooky whisper) "They say if you sit on this couch at midnight..."
3–8s	Beat. Lights snap on, big grin	"...you'll realize it only cost five twenty-nine."
8–15s	Quick price cuts + wave	"Happy Halloween from Robinson's. Now through November 2nd."

SCRIPT 6 – Outlet "Warehouse Walk" (20s) – Outlet only

Why: The Outlet's product-plus-price ads were the account's best performers. This shows the volume and the deals.

Time	Shot	Audio / text on screen
0–2s	Hook A: staffer bursts through the warehouse doors. Hook B: a slow push down an aisle with a price tag in the foreground	"Welcome to the scariest prices in Oxford."
2–15s	Gimbal walk, stop at 4–5 pieces, tags in frame	"Sofas, sectionals, recliners, bedroom sets, dining… up to fifty percent off."
15–20s	Staffer at the door	"The Robinson's Outlet, 101 Conner Road. Now through November 2nd."

Shot list – film this at BOTH stores

Talking to camera (use a lav mic, face toward the windows/doors, never with a bright window behind)

- ☐ Both hooks for every script (Hooks A + B)
- ☐ Owner pitch: 3 full takes
- ☐ 5–6 extra one-liner hooks: "These prices are scary." / "Five twenty-nine for THIS?" / "Don't be scared, come in." / "Halloween came early at Robinson's."
- ☐ 3 short "come see us" selfie-style closers from different staff

Couches (each of the 6)

- ☐ Wide shot
- ☐ Slow push-in
- ☐ Fabric/stitching close-up (60fps for slow motion)
- ☐ Someone sitting down
- ☐ Price tag close-up, in focus and readable

Store

- ☐ Exterior + sign (daytime; dusk if possible)
- ☐ Door opening / walking in
- ☐ 3 gimbal walk-throughs
- ☐ Halloween props: pumpkins, candy bowl, a bat or two
- ☐ Delivery truck / loading, if available
- ☐ Recliner mechanism demo (Foreside)

Phone settings: vertical · 4K 30fps (60fps for slow-mo) · lock focus and exposure · wipe the lens · tripod for talking shots · keep each b-roll clip under 10 seconds · shoot more than you think you need.

After the shoot: how we'll run it

- Launch 3–5 genuinely different videos: Scream, Owner Pitch, Couch Countdown, Sit Test, Warehouse Walk (Outlet). Run them in each store's campaign alongside the carousel.
- Within ~3 days: check 3-second view rate and average watch time. Keep the hooks that hold people past 3 seconds; cut the rest.
- The bar to beat: the 60th Anniversary videos had a 2-second average watch and a ~$10 click. Any of these should beat that easily if the first 2 seconds show a face, a couch and a price.
